Many thanks for posting this.The on-site fabrication of metal nanoparticles with different complex nanoparticles (MNPs-Co@CCP-MOF-NPs) by using a one-pot conversion method: modified synthesis and catalytic behavior. A one-pot conversion method was employed to prepare metal-organic frameworks (MOFs)-encapsulated cobalt nanoparticles (Co@CCP-MOFs-NPs) by using Co2+/Co3+ and Co2+/Co4+ as co-precursors and formaldehyde as the reductant. The Co3+/Co4+-related hierarchical nanostructure could be explained by the reduction of Co2+ to Co3+/Co4+ in situ. However, the reduction of formaldehyde resulted in the growth of the size of particles within the hierarchical nanostructure, which was probably due to the Co3+/Co f678ea9f9e
